WORDS FROM WARREN

*Hey kids, Warren Buffett here!
Every business needs to promote itself to sell products, and to distinguish itself from the competition. When a business advertises, it builds its brand and gains a larger share of the customer's mind. You advertise yourself every day - by what you wear and how you treat others. It's important to advertise yourself in a positive way so people see you from the inside out - always be honest and sincere, and never lie under any circumstance. So remember: treat other people the way you would like to be treated. This is the best advertisement of all!*
