WORDS FROM WARREN

Hey kids, Warren Buffett here!

A business is faced with many choices, and it is important for managers of a business to evaluate the right trade-offs to be successful. You always want to invest in a business with managers that make good decisions. Evaluating trade-offs and making the right decisions is also important in life--whether choosing to study, watch TV or play video games.

I recommend studying every day and trying to learn something you didn't know before. So remember: It's important to make the right trade-offs so you can have a balanced life--and never trade your reputation for anything.
